FOUR NEW SUPREME JUDGES.

Glance at the Men Who Are to Retire During President Cleveland's Term. During this Presidential term four of the Judges of the Supreme Court will reach the age of seventy years, at which time the law entitles them to retire with salary. If they take advantage of this Cleveland will have the appointment of three new Supreme Judges and one Chief Justice. Justice Bradley's term expires first, and he is already old enough to entitle him to retirement. Justices Field and Waite will be seventy years old in November, 1866, and Justice Miller will be seventy on the 6th of April of that year.

Justice Bradley will retire with a fortune. He is worth over half a million and he has one of the finest libraries in Washington. He has been on the Supreme Bench since 1870, and had made a fortune as a railroad lawyer before that. Like many great lawyers his hobby is mathematics, and he works out geometric problems for recreation. Bradley, it was said, was ntended for the ministry. His father was a farmer, but he was well enough ill to send him to Rutgers College, where he graduated in the same class with the late Secretary Frelinghuysen. Though he is seventy years old, h looks younger, and will probaby b able to follow the present fashion and complete a book of reminiscences before he dies.

Justice Miller has been upon the Su-preme Bench since 1862, and he is the oldest Justice in point of service there He was an Iowa lawyer when Lincoln appointed him, twenty-three years ago and he has maintained the reputation since then of being one of the most able Judges connected with the Sr reme Court. He is well enough off o retire, too, and he ought to be, for his salary on the bench will at the time of his retirement amount to two hundred and forty thousand dollars. He has a good sound frame for his age, and he must weigh about three hundred pounds light. He has a semi-bald, smoothly shaped head, a baby face as to softness of outline and resiness of complexion, and he looks for all the world like a mammoth reproduction of Dickens' fat boy thinking of some grave matter.

Justice Field lives in what was the old Capitol prison, in the block which they talk of tearing down and erecting they talk of tearing down and creeting the new library building in its place. Justice Field has been on the bench for nearly a generation, and it is twenty-eight years since he took his seat there as one of the Supreme Judges of California. Judge Field was a lively young fellow in those days, and I doubt not he was ready to defend his decisions with his pistal as he was in decisions with his pistol as he was in his career in the California Legislature shortly before this. Now he is older and more sober. He is one of the and more sober. He is one of the broadest and most learned men in public life. He travels clear across the country every year in attendance to his judicial duties, and his salary barely pays his expenses. He is not poor, however. His brother Cyrus has had so many opportunities to make his friends wealthy by giving them good pointers that it is hardly probable that his brother Stephen would be left. Judge Field entertains well, and his Judge Field entertains well, and his house is always full of company. Ho will probably continue to live at Washington after his retirement.

Chief Justice Waite will soon leave America for England. Mr Waite is much better now than he was several months ago, and this trip will result probably in the entire recovery of his health. He is now sixty-nine years of age and has only one more year to core, before he has the right to go, on serve before he has the right to go or the retired list. I saw him on the street vesterday. A very dark man with an iron-gray beard, which hangs down upon his chest. He has a kindly face, an intellectual brow and a thick growth of iron-gray hair. He is one of the examples of men who have rise to the highest honors of the United States by sticking closely to their pro-fession and not bothering with politics

- "Carp," in Cleveland Leader. A SPLENDID OBSERVATORY.

The Present Condition of the Lick Tele scope—When it Will be Completed On the summit of Mount Hamilton a California will be found a splendid observatory, which is only awaiting a rreat telescone to be ready for use, This observatory was brought into exstence by the will of an eccentric Califoria millionaire named Lick. This Heaven-observing institution would now be in practical operation were it not for the unfortunate failure of the glass makers to produce a piece of rown glass of the size and perfection required for the objective of the tele-scope. It is now reported that the new nanagement of the firm of Feil, o Paris, bas already overcome the diffi nillies incident to the making of the rrent disc; and if no accident shall appen, it is to be expected that the Clarks of Cambridgeport will have begun their work of figuring it before the end of the coming summer. The ength of time which this operation vill consume is uncertain, but two years is a reasonable allowance. The tome, meantime, will be built seventy. six feet in exterior diameter, a size certainly large enough to cover the thirty-in-inch telescope. The excavations or this structure in the solid rock of he mountain are already under way. nd the director of works expects to complete its main walls during the

oming summer, while the season 1886 will suffice for the addition of this superstructure or dome proper. Simaltaneously with the optician's work upon the glass discs, the equally inportant problem of the most suitable occuting for the telescope will be atlacked, and all the intricate mechanism required for its convenient use will be constructed and put in place underneath the dome, so as to receive he great glass and make its use possiole as soon as the optician's work is complete. It may confidently be expected that this important event in the aistory of astronomy, marking the completion of the first mountain observatory, will not be delayed be-good the autumn of 1887.—Demorest's

THREE suicides in Bloomington in one day, and nine successive gooseeggs for its base ball club the same day. Misfortunes never come singly.

REPUBLATION of its contracts by the government is one of the tirst features of the "reform" administration of President Cleveland.

THOMAS N. LEAVITT, who has been postmaster at Maroa for many years, lost his official head yesterday, Henry B. Smith, being named as his successor. We are not informed as to the cause, but presume it was offensive partisanship, since Mr. Leavitt is a Republican and Mr. Smith a

GEN. GRANT suffered an alarming relapse yesterday, the symptoms being those of extreme weakness and depression. His condition was such that all the members of his family were sent for, and the gravest fears of his speedy death were felt and admitted by the physicians. Concressman Barchay Henley, the single Democratic member of Congress from the Pacific slope, is in hot water. He is a Mexican and not a citizen of the United States. He was naturalized some years ago under the Mexican Government, and he has not legally resumed his citizenship since returning to this country. He voted at the election last November when he was chosen a member of Congress, and has been arrested for voting illegally.

Our neighbor of the Review does not seem to relish a reference to the time when he roamed through the woods in Macon county denouncing "both the wicked and corrupt old parties" and domanding their overthrow and annihilation. In trying to read his title clear to a post office the record of the days when be thought "one of the old parties just as bad as the other" rives up like a great black cloud before him.

Many Domogratio newspapers seem disposed to chuckle over the failure of John Ronob. Where they find cause for merriment we full to decover, anless it be a very fundy thing to see the important industry of American ship-building very builty crippled and soveral thousand workmen suddenly thrown out of employ ment. The Government was not Mr Rondh's best customer by any means and yet the Democratic papers would make it appear that his ship yard was maintained exclusively by thevernment work. There was undoubtedly a conspiracy among the friends of the Admin istration to bring about the financial downfall of Mr. Boach. This has been accomplished, but it will appear to the end that Mr. Wondle was not the only newspapers which the above might be applied to is the Decatur Review which chuckles over the Roach fail ure in no less than five different squibs to day. It is no doubt very gratifying to the average Democratic editor to hear of a business disaster to a political opponent which takes the bread from the mouths of three or four thousand hard working me chapies and their families, but we do not envy any one the possession of a Postmaster who uses or converts to spirit that can extract confort out of his own use postal fonds in his hands, although not required to deposit until such a calamity. But, then, Demo. the end of the current month or quartercratic editors, hungry for office, must do something to show their party zeal, especially if they have been wandering off after "Independent Reform" gode, and swearing that the Democratic party was no better than the wicked Republicans

A Scare in the Treasury Department. Washington, D. C., July 22 .- There ment Monday evening over a supposed bond robbery. After the clerks were all gone, and while the charwomen were cleaning up the offices, one of them found in the office of the December of the Currency a Company of agreement United States bonds. The states on the package called for five $1,400 bonds, but only four were in the package. After the long and careful search the missing $1,000 bond was found in the waste-paper roon all crumpled up. It seems there were some packages of $1,000 bonds sent to some packages of $1,000 bounds some to the Deputy Comptroller's office during the day, and by some inadvertence one package was put on top of the safe instead of inside. It is supposed that some one seeing them there, extracted one of the $1,000 bounds, but on fluding that they could not get out of the building with it, threw it in with the waste paper.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.-Min ister Foster has forwarded to the State Department a report prepared by Dr. La Granga, a member of a board of Spanish physicians, which for some time has been engaged in a study of the treatment and prevention of cholera. Dr. LaGranga in his report, antagouizes the position recently taken by other Spanish physicians, who maintained that moculation is an effective prevention of tholera, and asserts that inoculation against cholera is purely experimental, and the results thus far attained can not reasonably be claimed to prove its effletcy as cholera prevention.

The Troubles of Polygamy. SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, July 22 .- The only arrest for unlawful cohabitation yesterday was that of Thomas Porcher, a poor man. His polygamous wife is his own niece. It came out in the examination that she has borne ten children in ten years, all of which were dead. Porcher was held for trial. A special brings particulars of a monster massimeeting held by the Mormons of Paris, Idaho, to remonstrate against the test oath law recently passed by the Idaho Legislature. This law probabits any person from yearing theiling, effect of the control of the c person from voting, holding office, or serving as a juror, who belongs to au organization that teaches or practices polygamy as a religious lustitution. Bear Lake County, of which Paris is the capital, is peopled almost exclusively by Mormons, there not being enough Gentiles to fill the offices. A recent attempt to get Grand and trial juries failed, and, as a consequence, court can not be held. At the mass-meeting resolutions were adopted that only one person in thirty is a polygamist, yet the test onth law disfranchises between 15,000 and 20,000 people in Idaho, and has produced chaos. Telegraph to See General Grant Die. SARATOGA, N. Y., July 22.—[Bulletin]

The Family and Friends Summoned By

-General Grant can not sit down, for five minutes without rising again. Rev. Dr. Newman and his family are gathered around him. Dr. Douglas says that'the General can not live longer than twentyfour hours. U. S. Grant has been telegraphed for. Dr. Douglas is in constant attendance. The General is conscious of everything, and speaks in a whisper, lusk General Grant grew very restless. He was not content to keep his chair, as was the case early in the day, but wanted to move to his cot and to other chairs. He was not able to walk unaided, not scarcely to rise, and seemed unable to compose himself in any place five unantes at a time. It was decided about eight o'clock to change him to the parlor, and all the family assembled there with Dr. Newman. The General soon began to catch for breath, and there began to catch for breath, and there were plain signs that he was staking. Fans were used vigorously upon.him, but for half an hour he showed no improvement. Then his breathing became easier, and he feli asleep. That was the turning point of the early evening. After it he slept and awoke at short intervals, the family going to his side whenever he awoke, not knowing what it might mean. We showed no signs-of it might mean. He showed no signs of gaining strength, although occasionally of repose that promised to prolong his

It was the opinion of Colonel Grant It was the opinion of Colonel Grant all the evening that his father could not live through the night Dr. Douglas says he may last twenty-four hours. U. S. Grant, Jr., was summoned early in the evening. At 11:30, on wasting from a short nap, General Grant sent word to the family, who were on the porch, that there was no use in their sitting up any longer. The family asked Dr. Douglas what he thought He would give them no assurance. All except Colonel Grant concluded to retire.

no sasurance. All except Colone Gittle concluded to retire. Rev. Dr. Newman, who then left the cottage, said that from seven to nine all indications were that the General was dying. Prayers were read, the General clasping his hands whale the family knelt around him. Dr. Newman said that neither Mrs Grant nor he could believe that the General was dying, even while he sank before their eyes. He thinks the night will pass safely. Constant watch will be kept, and all will be summoned if there is a sign of failing.

Grant and His Doctor-Taking Food. Mr. McGregor, July 22 -At midday Beneral Grant said he felt that he could endure his condition of weakness but a short time longer, and then requested the physician to administer a hypodermic injection of morphine. Dr. Douglas was not much inclined to grant this request, because he believed that sleep and rest produced by artificial means would too rapidly drain the vitality of the patient, and, more than this, Dr. Douglas preand, more than one, Dr. Policias pre-ferred that his patient should take food-rather than opiates, and requested the General to do so. The General declined and insisted upon the adminis-tration of morphine. At length, to satiswhim, Dr. Douglas administered what ig him, Dr. Douglas administered what the General believed to be three minims of the drug, but it was really a slight portion only, diluted in the usual three drops of liquid, and it was injected into the General's arm. Then the General grew more quiet and seemed to sleep, and then it was the physician loft the cottage and reported his patient exceeding weak The quietude, however, was not protract ed. The General was attacked during the forenoon with blecoughs, and the steel which followed the glving of morphine was followed by renewed hiccoughing Attempts were made as the afternoon was waning, to give the General food. He joined in the endeavor, but the quantity retained was small. When he took a goblet full of the highly, its own weight distended the throat and food passed down, but, when the last few mouthfuls were being drained from the glass, the weight, and drained from the glass the weight and fullness of the Equid was not sufficient to distend the parts, and they closed, because the muscular power of the throat was insufficient to keep an onen passage. The result was a sea son of choking and coughing, with the ejection of a portion of the liquid at the close of each attempt to administer

The condition of the patient may appreciated when it is known that within perhaps fifteen minutes after an attempt to administer nourishment to him the General would suddenly look up with a momentary expression of bewilderment, and inquire of his attendant "When are you going to give me that food?"

A half hour might clapse, and again he vould glance up and ask "When are you going to give me the food you spoke of?"
And when told that he had just recelved food, but that more would be given if desired, the General would again fall into a half unconscious doze, and mutter: "Never mind Never mind." The afternoon was sultry and almost breathless, with the thermometer registering as high as eighty-five. There were no reviving elements in the atmosphere, and the sun went down after a day of stifling discomfort, even to persons in good health. The General remained in his room and was not dressed during the day. He did not move except when the pillows, kept constantly beneath him to prevent hed sores, were beaten up and aired. Several times he walked feebly to the collin the slek-room, while his res ing place was thus being alred and refreshed.
